IN OLIVE OIL — No, not they're packed like sardines. These Hartford olives crowd a jar at Kansas City stockpiles in overfunding, as the American Harvest Association reports. A record 566,784 registrations of purebred olives the final year ending Aug. 31, calls 1953 biggest year in history.

JAMES STEWART, hero of countless films and now in Jasper National Park with Ruth Roman and Corinne Calvet making "The Fox Country" took time off from work to review a gift from the children of Dawson City, B.C., who made a replica of Mile Post Zero on the Alaskan Highway. The model is seen here being presented to Mr. Stewart at Jasper Park Lodge by William H. Hobbs of Montreal, vice-president of the Canadian Railway.

PAINTING WITH PETALS — Reviving an ancient form of religious art, Evelyn Goodwyn puts flaming touches on a royal "well dressing" in Dean's Yard, Westminster Abbey. A layer of clay is applied in a wood framework, a pattern drawn in the clay and flower petals and small bits of greenery stuck in place. The exhibit was made to further the Westminster Abbey Fund Appeal.

FOUND OUT HE WAS NOT A SUPERMAN — "Tall the kids, Superman may be able to fly but he's not," said Larry, 10, of Larry King, of Okinawa, Pa., his pet cat, Nelly, quickly added the newcomer to her new family of five kittens. Nelly, an aggrer, shows no partiality, and feeds and cares for the "kitten" with the same gentleness that she shows her kittens.

Hot Dog's Birth (New York Times) — Historians admit that the hot dog was born on a cold day in the eighteenth century, but even the exact year remains obscure. The scene of this momentous event was the Fox Grounds, Cold winds whipped in off Coopers' Bazaar and the baseball fans cheered in the stands. Mr. Stevens dispatched another hot dog, this time from a bakery. He tossed the wieners into a huge pot filled with water and boiled them on the clubhouse stove. He sliced the

HALLOWEEN One Of World's Oldest Festivals

While their claims look as apprehensively, as they always have, the younger generation is getting ready to put all the tricks in tomorrow night's celebration of the historic festival of Halloween.

All across Canada in late years more and more organized events have been arranged to keep the youngsters busy and at the same time not offend. Police chiefs are now being asked to permit the children to have their annual "trick or treat" parties.

"Typical of this year's 'demon' preparation was the statement of the police chief of Vancouver. He said the police commission there has been very much interested in the children's 'trick or treat' parties.

U.N. Assembly's New President A Woman Of Many Interests

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—The new president of the UN General Assembly is a handsome, grey-haired woman of whom you can find a liberal education in her important role in world affairs ranging from the cold reality of a jail cell to the gentle atmosphere of a Swiss finishing school. She is Manu Vijaya Pandit, widow of India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru and a member of many firsts in the fields of domestic and international politics.

A politician's rebel who dedicated herself to the fight for Indian independence with civil disobedience, she was active in participating in such famous Indian independence movements as the British people, who was India's first woman cabinet minister, her country's first woman ambassador to Washington and Moscow, the first woman to hold a UN delegation and now the first woman president of the UN Assembly.

But while leading her son in his studies, she has not lost sight of the world's affairs, she prefers to be considered as an individual woman, not a woman, she claims little interest in clothes and thus to dress in simple but beautiful suits.

She is a reflection of the broader perspective by Indian women in politics that is true of most other countries. "Having that there are 10 women in the Upper House of the Indian Parliament, and 10 in the Lower House, Mrs. Pandit expects that it develops from the emphasis on women's role in the national struggle."

As a result, she says, "many women who did participate now to positions of prominence."
